About the program

The + SCREEN STORIES mentorship program is a transformative initiative designed to build a dynamic, intergenerational, and interdisciplinary network of support and shared expertise within the LGBTIQ+ screen production community. This program uniquely caters to a diverse group of LGBTIQ+ filmmakers, screen storytellers, and game developers by providing tailored guidance and support that respects and celebrates their unique identities and experiences.

Distinct from conventional mentorship models, the + SCREEN STORIES program is rooted in queer mentorship principles, creating a secure and inclusive environment where mentees can thrive both personally and professionally without the constraints of heteronormative expectations. This approach emphasises the importance of authenticity, acknowledges and addresses intersectional challenges, and actively celebrates queer culture and perspectives.

By prioritising the lived experiences of queer individuals, the + SCREEN STORIES mentorship program fosters an atmosphere of mutual growth, resilience, and innovation. This empowering framework equips mentees with the confidence and creativity needed to excel in their fields while cultivating a robust and supportive community.

LGBTIQ+ refers to Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, Transgender, Queer, Intersex, and Asexual - the '+' recognises that LGBTIQ+ doesn't include a range of other terms that people identify with, or use to describe themselves. We acknowledge that one acronym or description may be not able to fully capture the diversity of gender identities, sexual orientations and bodily diversity in our community, and that language is constantly evolving. Our intention is to be as succinct as we can, but inclusive of all
